PLAINTIFF’S RESPONSE TO COMCAST CABLE COMMUNICATIONS, LLC’S
NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENTAL AUTHORITY

Comcast Cable Communications, LLC (“Comcast”) filed a notice of supplemental authority with the Court. (ECF No. 13.) Comcast cites to, and attaches, four different court orders. (Id.) The four attached orders are not informative with respect to the issues pending before this Court.

Comcast’s citation to Pacific Century Int’l, LTD. v. John Does 1-37, et al., No. 12-1057 (N.D. Ill. March 30, 2012) is not informative because the court’s order was not a final decision and, as Comcast notes, is currently being reconsidered by the court. (ECF No. 13 at 1.) Comcast only attached the court’s original order and failed to provide the Court with the Rule 59(e) Motion to Amend or Alter Judgment. Plaintiff has attached the omitted motion hereto as Exhibit A. This Court should place very limited reliance on a decision that is subject to being reconsidered.

Comcast's citations to three unrelated cases¹ are also not informative because they involve different parties, different pleadings, different jurisdictions and different counsel for the plaintiffs. For example, all of the cited cases involve multiple Doe Defendants. In the case underlying this action there is only a single Doe defendant. A single individual, of course, cannot be misjoined with himself. Comcast's focus on severance decisions is misdirected in this instance.

Respectfully submitted,
